Re: Petroleum Contamination: Shoreham Elementary School (Site #93-1450)

Dear Chuck:

Ten days ago we discussed your request of August 1, for additional on-site investigation of contaminated soil from the Shoreham Elementary School. You had asked that a consultant be retained for the investigation.

At the time of the fuel oil tank removal, the contaminated soil was piled on a farmer's land for decontamination over a period of time. It was placed in accordance with instructions of the consultant. It was not placed near water supplies or a stream.

As we discussed, in looking into the matter after the receipt of your letter, I found that the pile no longer existed. The owner of the farm said that he had been told by the consultant that it could be distributed after one year.

Since our discussion, I have visited Douglas Atwood who owns the farm. I looked at the site where the soil had been originally placed. The pile was no longer there. Mr. Atwood stated that the soil had been distributed thinly over the land. None had been placed near water or near a well.

Please give me a call if further action is required. Thank you much for your assistance.

Sincerely,

Merritt C. Chandler
